We had a good quarter. We achieved growth of 13 percent in net sales, 14 percent in operating profit and 13 percent in EBITDA.

Our top line growth was composed of 10 percent organic growth and Evenflo contributed with 3 additional percentage points. Our consumer products business grew 13 percent. Professional products also contributed significantly.

Higher sales in consumer products were mainly volume driven. During the quarter we perceived a better consumer environment which, in addition to the results of our strategies to incentivize demand and increase our market shares, resulted in growth in most of our categories. Standing out in terms of such growth were disposable diapers, household products and wet wipes.

Our costs grew less than our sales despite the strong negative impact caused by peso devaluation. The dollar denominated prices of some raw materials like oil derivatives are still higher than last year. Additionally, almost all of our costs reflected the impact of a 14 percent weaker peso. The effect of these impacts was offset by higher operating efficiencies and by the results of our ongoing cost savings program.

EBITDA grew 13 percent in the quarter to $$ 2,091$ million pesos, a 250 basis points margin improvement versus the first quarter. Net income grew 6 percent mainly as a consequence of the negative effects from the peso depreciation during the quarter that affected our position in foreign currency liabilities.

In the last twelve months we invested $$ 1,605$ million pesos ( $$ 1,066$ in capital expenditures (Capex) and $$ 539$ in stock repurchases), and paid a $$ 3,651$ million pesos dividend to our shareholders.

As of June 30, 2012 the company had $$ 3,315$ million pesos in cash.
In dollars, under US GAAP, net sales were in line with those of last year; operating profit was down 2 percent and net income decreased by 10 percent. These results were significantly affected by the weaker peso.

On June 1, our Morelia mill was affected by a fire in the converting area. All of the investigations point to an accident. This event will not materially affect our results as we have proper insurance as well as available manufacturing capacity at other facilities to cover our production requirements. Our June 30 balance sheet reflects a $$ 167$ million pesos assets write-off as well as an accounts receivable from the insurance for the same amount.

As reported in the financial statements, the company has one derivative financial instrument to hedge the risk of interest rates variation. Changes to the market price of this instrument would not materially impact the company's results.
